New album „A.R.C.A.B“ (All Robocops Are Bastards)

Years have past since the last release of those alternative rockers from Lebkuchen-City. Years they almost got lost in the well known doom of a daft rock'n'roll band. Growing fame and easy money came with too many drugs and beautiful women, followed by drug problems and less beautiful women, musical and individual differences, lineup changes, a tribute album und finally the buzz faded out. Some have rumoured the band had already taken its last breath, but hey! Surprise, surprise: They are still there. And regardless of the consequences, weight problems and loss of hair they're still standing on stage, sweating and playing their hearts out, until the devil takes them.

Not the next big thing, no hype, no bullshit, just guitar, bass and drums and rock for sure. We can't do something else, but that's what we can do right.

Call it Indie, Alternative, Retro or Post or New or whatever?

Why should we care as long as the crowd is moving their arses!

It's been an open secret that these guys are good since the release of their last album "Fast Forward" (Burrofeliz/SPV) while the rough sound of their prior album "Kurt Cobain" or the independent milestone "Reject" got them the status of an insider tip already. The brilliant Greatest-Hits-Album "A Tribute to...Subwave" was only the next step.

Now the release of their album "A.R.C.A.B" shows them moving on their unwavering path and celebrate their inimitable mix of styles from Grunge to Indie and Alternative rock on every stage, which gets in their way.
